POLITICAL PROSPECTS IN IRAN

- I. Mossadeq decrees nationwide referendum:
  - A. Decree issued on 25 July.
  - B. Referendum will decide if present Majlis should be abolished.
  - C. May be held as early as 5 August.

- II. Referendum expected to dissolve Majlis:
  - A. Proposed referendum actually illegal; only shah can dissolve Majlis.
  - B. Tudeh will support Mossadeq.
  - C. Nonsecret ballot makes it possible for Mossadeq's supporters to influence the voters.
  - D. Referendum will probably approve dissolution of Majlis.

- III. Mossadeq can rule as dictator until new elections:
  - A. Full powers previously granted Mossadeq are valid until January 1954.
  - B. He has previously made the Majlis share responsibilities.
  - C. Therefore, new elections are expected.

- IV. Communists will probably gain from new elections:
  - A. Tudeh party will probably run its candidates under front organizations, or even under Mossadeq's banner.
  - B. Probably can elect some of its candidates in Tehran.
  - C. Other cities, such as Isfahan, might also return Communist deputies.
  - D. In districts where Tudeh is weak, it will probably support Mossadeq.

V. Opposition expected to elect some deputies:

- A. Mossadeq faces considerable moderate and rightist opposition grouped around shah.
- B. A united opposition including tribal chiefs, army officers, landlords and Kashani's religious fanatics might defeat Mossadeq.
- C. At any rate, in rural districts the opposition will probably have some success since only wholesale terrorism could completely defeat them.

VI. New Majlis no solution to Mossadeq's problems:

- A. Mossadeq will rule alone for several months before new elections can be held.
- B. In new Majlis, Mossadeq may control a larger group.
- C. He will still face an opposition bloc.
- D. Tudeh will be urging Mossadeq to more extreme policies while waiting for a chance to take over.
- E. Possibility of Tudeh members in Mossadeq's cabinet.

VII. Mossadeq vacillates:

- A. He is reportedly undecided and extremely nervous.
- B. However, he claims that people will support him.
- C. Mossadeq has an almost miraculous ability to recoup.
- D. Only Tudeh, however, has a sense of purpose and a clear doctrine.
